Can You Find?™ Jigsaw Puzzles Hit the Mark

Kintnersville, Pennsylvania – June 13, 2007 – The Puzzle Works™ at Rocking Chair Studio introduced four different Can You Find?™ Jigsaw puzzle products for children at the National Stationery Show May 20th through May 23rd in New York City, combining a jigsaw puzzle with a hidden object game. Now, with production in full swing, Rocking Chair Studio, known for their Can You Find?® games by Melinda Fabian, unveiled four new jigsaw puzzle products at the show. The Game Tin™ includes a 106-piece jigsaw puzzle in four 5”x7” sections along with a sheet of repositionable stickers, “Know Your Animals” trivia card game, activity pages, and a gold pencil, all inside a tin decorated with a Can You Find?® image. The second product is a 12” by 18” tray puzzle with 106-pieces. Third, are 5” by 7” mailable greeting card puzzles. These mailable puzzles include a 26 or 27 piece puzzle and envelope sealed in a plastic sleeve for display. The fourth product is a 10” by 14” mailable puzzle where the sender mails one of the four sections every day or week until the recipient receives the entire puzzle.

“Our customers kept asking for our hidden object puzzles as jigsaw puzzles,” says Frank Fabian of Rocking Chair Studio. “We delivered!”

Each of the jigsaw puzzle sections contains three special shape pieces. The shapes include a car, a horse, an airplane and more. The new tray puzzles and game tins feature Can You Find?™ puzzles with plenty of objects to find, but first, you have to assemble the pieces. The 10” x 14” mailable puzzle presents the recipient with only a portion of the puzzle at a time. The anticipation of receiving the next portion makes it an irresistible treat.

“These are the first products from our Puzzle Works™”, says Fabian. “The investment was worth it when you see the result.”

The addition of Can You Find?™ Jigsaw puzzles offer retailers a complete line of products including greeting cards, posters, stationery tins, game tins and gift enclosure tags. Every design is very colorful, attracts a lot of attention, and provides plenty of fun, wholesome entertainment for children and adults.
